SHIFTS RESPONSIBILITY

New Democratic State of Bavaria Issues Manifesto—Objects to Terms of Armistice. Basel, Tuesday, Nov. 12.—Declaring that the new democratic state of Bavaria is not responsible for the faults of the old regime in Germany, a manifesto has been sent from Munich to the new federal government of Germany asking that commission be set up to investigate the armistice he sent to the entente powers. It is said that the terms agreed to by Germany in stopping the hostilities are of such a nature as to prevent rapid establishment of order in Bavaria.

A Basel dispatch earlier in the week reported that the Bavarian government had sent a protest to President Wilson complaining that the terms of the armistice were burdensome to that part of Germany and that the new government was planning to begin the offensive of the militarists who formerly ruled Germany.

CENSORSHIP WITHDRAWN

SIGHTSEERS NOT WANTED

Washington, Nov. 14.—There is no place in Europe yet for the sightseers for the thousands of Americans who have been awaiting the end of the war to travel in Europe. The war has devastated cities and towns left in the wake of the great contending armies. The European embassies in Washington already are receiving many applications for permission to take passage for Europe. It is explained that there still are not enough travel agencies to handle the thousands of sightseers, and the continuing necessity of the strictest conservation of the slender resources of Europe forbids the entry for a long time to come of mere sightseers and persons who have not the most urgent reasons for visiting the continent and the British Isles.

OUTBREAKS OF DISORDER

London, Nov. 14.—Disorders have broken out in the general railroad strike in Switzerland, and a battle has been fought in the streets of Zurich, said a Bern dispatch to the Daily Express today. The Zurich fight was between Bolshevik strikers and troops. Traffic in Switzerland is badly crippled.

WHERE THIRTIETH FOUGHT

Simonds Writes on Driving The Germans Out of France. The British and Canadian troops, with one gallant American division, were called upon to deliver the most considerable thrust in a struggle which was actually raging from the Meuse to the sea. They were not sent in until the Belgian and Franco-American blows at the two ends had put a severe strain upon German reserves. They were not called upon to attack after an artillery preparation of the old sort, the complete advertisement of the purpose to the enemy. They were put in at Foch's moment, the moment for which he had been preparing for days and weeks.

And being put in at Foch's moment they achieved what he had hoped for. They went in and on and through, they pushed forward their flanks as well as their centers. They upset the equilibrium of the whole German front west of Verdun. Within the briefest time a crumbling of the Lorraine, Champagne and Flanders fronts became visible. Whatever the French offensive in Champagne in 1915, the Anglo-French attack at the Somme in 1916, Nivelle's attack at the Aisne and Haumont in 1917, and the last year's drive of Flanders in each of these there came the fatal slowing down, the pause, the costly and useless effort to get on again. The same thing was true in both of Ludendorff's opening successes of the year, that against the British and the other against the French. He broke through, but he could not keep it up. July 18, and as the Tommy would say, "he is still going strong." In fact, each of his major blows seems more effective than the last. Each time he has sent his troops against a more difficult barrier, each time the task has been far more terrible, yet each success seems a degree more complete. And this can mean but one thing, it can only mean that the German military system, which thanks to the British devotion and perseverance and to the renewed strength, energy and efficiency of their armies, have been able to avenge first Cambrai by a third, which is a finer achievement than Waterloo and Blenheim, rolled into one, and more thoroughly British, into the hands of the British. From "The War is Won—Mittelluropa is Finished," by Frank H. Simonds, in the American Review of Reviews for November, 1918.

BAYLOR vs. CENTRAL

Old-Time Rivalry to Be Fought Out Friday. Baylor and Central High school will stack eleven on Chamberlain field Friday afternoon in what will probably be a very hotly-contested game. Central High has already been eliminated from the quadrangular city championship race by her defeat at the hands of McCallie, but the inherent rivalry between the two schools will serve to give zest. Baylor, however, is in line for the championship to date—that is, she is yet undefeated at the hands of a local eleven.

The county eleven has been rather handicapped during the 1918 season for lack of a coach. "Jimmy" Ely, who is a coach at the school, entered "T" work last summer. During the last few years of his regime in the football annals of Central his teams did not present the figure locally as formerly, however, whether hard luck or otherwise. It seems almost like a forgotten day when Central invariably put forth a trump-card eleven. Until her defeat at the hands of City High in 1914, to the tune of 27 to 0, her followers were seldom disappointed in a game, and perhaps the debacle of the last few years has been due to reaction.

Although defeated by the Blue and White string, Central's eleven is working steadily getting ready for the fracas with Baylor Friday. They have been assisted somewhat by McCallie's coach and also by ex-coach Ely, once or twice, but in the main the only instruction the new men are getting comes from what few men are left from the 1917 string. The veterans are Heron, Hill, Peak and Murphy.

Baylor has been even less fortunate in regard to experienced material, but two of her last year's team being on the hook. Johnson, at right half, is an able captain, and Dubose, at left tackle, are the only players on the squad who have seen previous service.

Central, who has played only one game—with Sewanee Military academy—being defeated, 14 to 6. The game was played at Sewanee, on a muddy field, considerably hampering the movements of the light and speedy Baylor and Gray eleven. Its supporters contend that the defeat at the hands of the Little Tigers gives no indication of the real strength of the team.

Promising material has been discovered in Applewhite, at right tackle; Emerson, at left tackle, and Daniels, at right half. All three of these are inexperienced.

RESUME WORK

Commission Orders Sidewalk Construction—Details of Meeting. The proposal of the American Food Producing company to buy the city's "red" garbage at the rate of 40 cents a ton was withdrawn at Tuesday's meeting of the city commission. The matter of the city's acceptance of the proposition has been under advisement until Tuesday, when representatives of the company told Commission Baker that on the basis of the labor conditions their proposition had been withdrawn.

The city commission ordered the construction of a sidewalk on the east side of Market street between Second and Third streets. The completion of this piece of work will mean that sidewalks from the Market street bridge to Main street are in good condition.

The ordinance appropriating $5,000 for the Florence Crittenton home was passed on its last reading.

Mayor Littleton has been asked by national officials to appoint a committee of ten people of Chattanooga to take charge of a reclamation campaign to begin about Nov. 20. The campaign is nation wide and has for its purpose the reclamation of all sorts of waste materials such as rags, waste paper, metals, rubber, etc.

AFTER EFFECTS OF MEASLES

Mother, Who Lives in Tennessee, Mountains Where Black-Draught Is Relied on In Many Troubles, Says It Made Her Boy-Sound and Well. Coal Creek, Tenn.—Up in the mountains, quite some distance from town, lives Mrs. U. S. Fritts, who relates her experience with Theodor's Black-Draught as follows:

"My little boy, James, took sick with diarrhea, about five years ago, and was badly swollen. He had the measles and this was, no doubt, an after-effect. I made him well by giving him Theodor's Black-Draught. I gave it to him three times a day for a month. I firmly believe it saved his life.

We always keep Black-Draught in our house. It is our doctor. Always easy to get and prompt in giving relief.

A small pinch of Black-Draught after each meal and at bedtime for headache, stomach and liver trouble, and we are well the next morning.

It certainly works wonders sometimes and saves no end of trouble, relieves pain, and there is no need for another doctor.

I have recommended Black-Draught to all my neighbors and will continue to recommend it. Theodor's Black-Draught is a pure, vegetable herb medicine, acting gently, yet promptly, on liver and bowels.

Thousands of people everywhere have found it to relieve constipation, indigestion, biliousness and many similar disorders. Try Black-Draught. Your druggist sells it.—(Adv.)

TRIUMPH FOR WILSON IN EVENTS PAST FEW DAYS

PRESIDENT'S COURSE NOW KNOWN AS WISEST. Great Theme of First War Message to Be Finally Realized.

(By David Lawrence.) Washington, Nov. 14.—(Copyright, N. Y. Evening Post.)—Just a month ago the world read three questions addressed by President Wilson to Germany in answer to her plea for peace. As they were issued to the American people, they provoked much comment, in some cases bitter criticism.

They were misunderstood because the president was not in a position to take the public into his confidence. Now that an eventful month has elapsed, and the war is over, a little story can be told.

"What will be the effect, what do you hope to accomplish by the inquiry?" was asked of Mr. Wilson by a friend. "This will bring revolution to Germany. If people are ready to overthrow their rulers to get peace."

About the same time that the above conversation took place this correspondent sent a dispatch from Washington, saying that the president by his answer to Germany, meant to test the good faith of the new socialist government that had come into power just a few days before, an event of which the world generally took little notice, and meant also to "sow the seeds of social revolution."

Now the president's prediction has been fulfilled. There was no special power of prophecy involved. Mr.

Wilson simply had more information than the public, most of it confidential, and during the last month he has been more worried over the prospect of anarchy in Europe than anything else.

He knew that when the German request for armistice came Germany was on the verge of collapse, and his concern was how to manage the situation without forcing bolshevism on Germany, a disease of such contagion that if left unchecked might spread to neighboring countries.

Some Day World Will Know. The world some day will know the true story of how the president, accused by his critics of trying to "negotiate" peace with Germany, accused of "weakening" and accused of things equally severe by newspapers and public speakers, deliberately ignored this criticism and acted as he thought best for the interest of humanity. He sacrificed the good esteem of these critics for a short time with the conviction that the events of the future would vindicate his position.

In this connection it may be said that the rumors which persisted about two weeks ago concerning the abdication of the Kaisers, rumors that were printed by London newspapers as coming from Holland and Switzerland, had some foundation.

Indeed ever since Germany made her last plea for a cessation of hostilities on land, on sea, and in the air, she has been trying hard to surrender and keep some kind of government structure intact for the making of peace.

The president refused to heed the cries that he had nothing to do with any German government, that he had no order the armies proceed to Berlin and to let the allied troops go on fighting indefinitely until Germany was occupied.

Mr. Wilson felt that a wiser course would be to recognize Germany's desperate effort to keep herself from anarchy, to assist the socialist democrats of Germany into power, and to prevent Germany from becoming another Russia, ruled by the red flag of terror.

Huge Relief Project. Even before the public was aware of the revolts which began at Kiel and spread to other parts of Germany, the president discussed with Herbert Hoover what might be done to prevent a food famine and bolshevism, its inevitable consequence.

Mr. Wilson wrote Mr. Hoover a letter authorizing him to undertake on the behalf of the United States and in co-operation with the other governments of Europe a huge relief project.

The president expressed in that letter his warm appreciation of the remarkable work done by Mr. Hoover and his splendid staff in handling the food problem during the war.

What President Wilson strove to do, was to dissuade the German people, to turn them from their belief in the supremacy of physical force and brutality to an understanding of moral force and a nation's conscience. By insisting on unlimited use of the national help and food supplies and a selective draft, at the outset American troops went to Europe by the hundreds of thousands, and two million more are now being sent.

The German people did overthrow their government, and there remains now the great theme of Mr. Wilson's first war message to be finally realized in preventing bolshevism and anarchy in making the world at last safe for democracy.

Perfect Womanhood depends on perfect health. Beauty and a good disposition both vanish before pain and suffering. A great menace to a woman's happiness in life is the suffering that comes from some functional derangement which soon develops headaches, backache, nervousness and "blue devils." ## LOOKS AFTER BUILDINGS

Squire Sam Lowe Must Keep School-houses in Good Repair. Hamilton county now has a superintendent of buildings, whose sole duty shall be the keeping in repair of all schoolhouses, public buildings, etc. The new official is Squire Sam Lowe, one of the best known and most highly respected citizens in Hamilton county. In his capacity as county judge, Squire Sam A. Lowe stated that he had found the school buildings throughout the county in a bad state of repair, and it would be a great saving to the county to have one man to look after all of this sort of work. He stated that as it was now men had to be hired to do this work and they charged by the hour, and their prices were enormous. He would be much better off to have a man on a salary and let him have charge of this work. Judge Conner stated that he would be glad to see Squire Lowe in securing the services of such a valuable man as Squire Lowe. The appointment is effective at once.
